FOREWORD

Owing to large changes in the boundaries of States since 1951, arising out of the Andhra State Act, 1953, the Chandernagore (Merger) Act, 1954, the States Reorganistion Act, 1956 and the Bihar and West Bengal (Transfer of Territories) Act, 1956, it has become necessary to re-cast the 1951 Census Tables to accord with the new layout of the States. This paper deals with 'A' and 'E' series of tables published in the Census of India, Volume I, Part II-A—Demographic Tables. Other tables will be presented in the new layout in a subsequent paper or papers. Certain changes of form rendered necessary in the various tables have been explained in the explanatory notes appended to the tables concerned.

TABLE A-I

Area, houses and population

TABLE A-I—Area, houses and population

1. The present table is a re-cast of the original table A-I of the 1951 Census given in Volume I, Part II-A, Demographic Tables, in the layout of States existing on November 1, 1956. The original Table A-I was divided into three parts, one each for total, rural and urban population respectively. The present table has been compiled in only one part, combining figures of total, rural and urban population like the 1951 State Census Tables.

2. Changes in the boundaries of States since 1951 Census.—Considerable changes have taken place in the boundaries of States since 1951. The old State of Madras was divided into two new States, Madras and Andhra, on October 1, 1953 as a result of the Andhra State Act, 1953. The former French Possession of Chandernagore which became part of the Indian Union after the 1951 Census, and was a separate unit till 1954, has been merged in West Bengal as a result of the Chandernagore (Merger) Act, 1954. A wholesale reorganisation of States took place on November 1, 1956 as a result of the States Reorganisation Act, 1956 and the Bihar and West Bengal (Transfer of Territories) Act, 1956. There are now 14 States and 6 Union Territories and one other Area in India as against 27 Part 'A', 'B' & 'C' States and two Part 'D' territories and other Areas in 1951. Appendix I to this Table explains the relationship between each of the present States and the States as existed at the time of the 1951 Census.

3. Territories to which the figures relate.—Subject to the exceptions specified below, the figures in this table relate to all States, Union territories and Sikkim within their present boundaries.

Exceptions.—The 1951 Census was not taken in the areas specified below :—

(a) Owing to special conditions prevailing there, the census was not taken in the State of Jammu and Kashmir ; and

(b) In all previous Censuses the enumeration of what are known as 'tribal areas' of Assam was limited mainly to the parts thereof which fell within the plains area. At the 1951 Census, the count was extended somewhat further into the Naga Tribal Areas. But the greater part of the remaining Part 'B' Tribal areas of Assam has been left out of the count at the 1951 Census also.

4. Population of areas in which 1951 Census was not taken.—(i) The population of Jammu and Kashmir was enumerated as 4,021,616 at the 1941 Census. It was estimated at 4.37 millions as on 1-3-1950 under the Constitution (Determination of Population) Order, 1950. With reference to these figures, it is estimated that the population of the State as on 1-3-1951 was 4·41 millions.

(ii) A local estimate (which at that time, was unverified) indicated that the population of Part 'B' tribal areas of Assam was about 0·56 millions. The figure was mentioned when the provisional census total was published. Enquiries since made have failed to indicate any acceptable basis for the local estimate.

5. Territorial distribution of population.—In former censuses all-India Tables gave figures for 'Provinces,' major States and States Agencies for other States, with a total for Provinces, States and Agencies, and all-India. At the 1951 Census, considerable number of population totals, both above and below the State level were added. The general scheme of all-India Tabulation was based on the territorial aggregates described as Zones, Regions, Sub-regions and Divisions. But the present table gives figures for India by States only as considerable changes have taken place due to reorganisation of States. Zonal, Regional, Sub-regional and Divisional break-up as given in the original table has been dispensed with.

6. Area.—Owing to extensive territorial changes, area figures for a large number of districts had to be re-settled. Area figures as worked out and supplied by the Surveyor General, India have been adopted in the table. The Surveyor General, however, has pointed out that these figures are still provisional, as in many cases the area has been measured from smaller scale maps where the new alignments are not available on larger scale maps. More accurate estimates will be available later, when the new alignments are marked on the larger scale topographical maps.

7. Villages and towns.—The census definition of 'villages' is the same in all States, as in previous Censuses. It should be borne in mind that the concept of a 'village' is not demographic, but administrative. As a general rule, it represents a parcel of land, the boundaries of which are defined and settled by a Revenue Survey or by a cadastral survey. It may be, but need not always necessarily be, a single house-cluster with a local name marking its distinctiveness as a residential locality. Places and parts of places treated as 'villages' in one census may cease to be such in subsequent censuses, if they are absorbed in towns. The figures exclude uninhabited villages.

A town is normally an inhabited locality with a total population of not less than 5,000 persons. But, places with a somewhat larger population which do not possess definite urban character may not be treated as towns. At the same time places with a smaller population with definite urban character (including generally all municipalities and cantonments and other places having a local administration of their own) may be treated as separate towns. The decision, in marginal cases, rests with State Governments in some States and State Census Superintendents in others. At this Census there were 2,136 villages with population exceeding 5,000 and 611 towns with population less than 5,000. Details by States will be found in Appendix II.

2—1 M. of H. A. (Paying) /57.

8. *Houses and households.—In earlier censuses, the definition of a house was not uniform in all States. At this Census a uniform definition of house has been adopted and a conceptual distinction established between the 'house' and the 'household'. A 'house' is a structure while a 'household' is a human group. A house means a "dwelling with a separate main entrance". "A household means all persons who live together in the same house and have a common mess."

The statement in Appendix III shows the number of households, number of occupied houses and the number of households per 1,000 occupied houses for the various States. (All figures of houses furnished in this table relate to "occupied" houses only.)

9. Population totals.—The figures relate to all persons who were alive at sunrise on the 1st March, 1951 and were present within the territories (including territorial waters) where the 1951 Census was taken with the exception of—

(a) Non-Indian Nationals who are members of the staff of Diplomatic and Consular Missions in India, of foreign and Commonwealth countries, and stationed in Delhi, Bombay, Calcutta and Madras ; and members of their families ; and

(b) Non-Indian Nationals on Non-Indian warships lying in Indian Ports.

The total population given in this table is as follows :—

Persons	356,879,394
Males	183,333,874
Females	173,545,520

These totals differ from those given in Census of India Paper No. I of 1952 to a small extent as shown below :—

Persons	49,909
Males	28,220
Females	21,689

The difference is due to the fact that the population of Chandernagore, now merged in Hooghly district of West Bengal, was not included in Census of India Paper No. I.

10. Inmates of institutions and houseless persons.—The figures furnished in this table include, not merely the aggregate population of all households, but also persons living in institutions such as Hospitals, Jails, Asylums, Boarding Houses, etc., as well as houseless persons (e.g., members of wandering tribes, tramps, pavement-dwellers, etc.). The number of such persons are separately shown by States in Appendix IV.

11. Data in respect of affected districts.—As a result of the Andhra State Act, 1953, Chandernagore (Merger) Act, 1954, States Reorganisation Act, 1956 and Bihar and West Bengal (Transfer of Territories) Act, 1956, the boundaries of a number of districts have been affected by the transfer of some portions from one district to another. It has, therefore, become necessary to compile separately for these affected districts the data given in this table. It has been presented in Appendix V. In compiling the figures of villages, towns, houses and population, no account has been taken of inter-district transfers, if any, between 1951 Census and November 1, 1956 other than those covered by the above four Acts. The area figures have been taken as supplied by the Surveyor General, India (cf. paragraph 6 above).

12. Estimation of data.—As a result of reorganisation of States, districts and Census tracts have sometimes been broken up and portions transferred from one State to another. Villages and towns, however, have not been affected. Since the data contained in the present table is available by individual villages and towns in the published census records, it has been possible to re-cast the figures of the original count without resorting to estimations except in a few cases noted below :—

(i) Shencottah Pakuthy of Shencottah taluk of the former district of Quilon was split up into two parts by an agreement between the Madras and Travancore-Cochin States shortly before the reorganisation of States in 1956. By this agreement a portion of the Pakuthy was transferred to Madras. This arrangement continues even after reorganisation. The sex-wise break-up of the population and the number of occupied houses in the two portions of the Pakuthy are not separately available in the 1951 census records. The sex-wise break-up of the two portions, individually, has been estimated, for the purposes of Table A-I on the basis of the sex-wise break up of the whole Pakuthy. The number of occupied houses in each of the two portions has been estimated on the basis of the distribution of general population.

*Certain local instructions issued in West Bengal had the effect of practically obliterating the distinction made in this Census between house and household.

(ii) The number of households in the portion of Shencottah Pakuthy taluk of Quilon district and in Agastheeswaram, Thovala, Kalkulam and Vilavancode taluks of Trivandrum district, transferred from the old Travancore-Cochin State to Madras State, was not available in the published records of 1951 Census. It has, therefore, been estimated, for the purposes of Appendix III of Table A-I, on the basis of the number of occupied houses, which is available.

(iii) The figures of houseless and institutional population for the areas mentioned in (ii) above, were not available in the published census records and have, therefore, been estimated, for the purposes of Appendix IV of Table A-I, on the basis of the distribution of general population.

*1. The difference in the total figures for India given here and the figures in Appendix III as published in the Census of India, 1951, Vol. I, Part II-A, Demographic Tables, is due to the inclusion of figures for Andaman and Nicobar Islands which are now available and exclusion of figures for the portions of Bihar State transferred to West Bengal State.

2. Figures for West Bengal and Sikkim are not given in this table as the basis for collection of statistics on houses and households in these States was varied from that adopted in other States. (In West Bengal and Sikkim a local instruction was issued varying the definition of a house with the result that in the urban areas of these States, there are more houses than households.) India figures do not, therefore, include figures for West Bengal and Sikkim.

TABLE A-II

Variation in population during fifty years

TABLE A-II—Variation in population during fifty years

This table gives, for the same units as Table A-I, the 1951 Census population and the population for the previous five Censuses. The figures furnished in this table correspond to the territorial limits as on 1st November, 1956. The nature of changes that have taken place between 1951 Census and November 1, 1956 has already been explained in Appendix I to Table A-I.

2. As a result of the Andhra State Act, 1953, Chandernagore (Merger) Act, 1954, States Reorganisation Act, 1956, and Bihar and West Bengal (Transfer of Territories) Act, 1956 the boundaries of a number of districts have been affected by the transfer of some portions from one district to another. It has, therefore, become necessary to compile separately for these affected districts the data given in this table. It has been presented in the Appendix. In compiling these figures, no account has been taken of inter-district transfers, if any, between 1951 Census and November 1, 1956 other than those covered by the above four Acts.

3. In some cases, as a result of the reorganisation of States, census tracts or tehsils/taluks have been broken up and the portions allotted to different districts and states. The census data for these different portions was not always available and estimates were made for the various censuses according to the following procedure :—

(i) The population and its sex break-up for 1941 and/or earlier censuses were not available for the following affected portions of a district/taluk :—

1. Portion of Purnea and Purulia districts transferred from Bihar to West Bengal.
2. Abu Road taluka of Banaskantha district transferred from Bombay to Rajasthan.
3. Chandgad taluka of Belgaum district remaining in Bombay.
4. Ahmadpur, Nilanga and Udgir taluks of Bidar district transferred from Hyderabad to Bombay.
5. Zahirabad taluk (except Nirna circle), Nyalkal circle of Bidar taluk and Narayankhed taluk of Bidar district transferred from Hyderabad to Andhra Pradesh.
6. Mudhol, Bhiansa and Kuber circles of Mudhol taluk and Bichkonda and Jukkal circles of Deglur taluk of Nanded district transferred from Hyderabad to Andhra Pradesh.
7. Islapur circle of Boath taluk and Kinwat and Rajura taluks of Adilabad district transferred from Hyderabad to Bombay.
8. Alampur and Gadwal taluks of Raichur district transferred from Hyderabad to Andhra Pradesh.
9. Kodangal and Tandur taluks of Gulbarga district transferred from Hyderabad to Andhra Pradesh.
10. Portion of Shencottah taluk of Quilon district transferred from Travancore-Cochin to Madras.
11. Agastheeswaram, Thovala, Kalkulam and Vilavancode taluks of Trivandrum district transferred from Travancore-Cochin to Madras.
12. Sironj sub-division of Kotah district transferred from Rajasthan to Madhya Pradesh.
13. Chandernagore.

The population of these portions, for the Censuses concerned, has been estimated on the assumption that it bears to the population of the district concerned, in these Censuses, the same proportion as in the 1951 Census. The sex-wise break-up of the population thus obtained in the various Censuses has been estimated on the basis of the male/female proportion of the particular district/taluk, in the Census concerned.

(ii) The total of the population of all the districts of the erstwhile Hyderabad State for 1931, 1921, 1911 and 1901 Censuses, did not tally with the total population of the State for the Censuses concerned. The difference between the figures for the State and the total of the figures for all the districts, was +8,240 for 1931, +16,456 for 1921, —70,744 for 1911 and —21,599 for 1901. The differences have been adjusted in the present table between the portions of the erstwhile Hyderabad State transferred to Andhra Pradesh, Bombay and Mysore States, on the basis of the proportion of population of these portions in the Censuses concerned.

TABLE A-III

Towns and villages classified by population

TABLE A-III—Towns and villages classified by population

1. Figures are given in this table for the same units as in Table A-I.

2. The total number of towns and villages (col. 2) and the total population (cols. 3-5) of this table are the same as given in Table A-I.

3. In this table all towns and villages have been classified with reference to their population into one or other of the following groups :—

Less than 500	5,000 to 10,000
500 to 1,000	10,000 to 20,000
1,000 to 2,000	20,000 to 50,000
2,000 to 5,000	50,000 to 100,000

100,000 and over.

4. The table follows the corresponding table of the previous censuses. Some additional information is given this time. In each group while in earlier censuses only the total population was given, sex details are given at this census.

Intermediate group totals have been struck for the following population groups :—

Less than 2,000

2,000 to 10,000

10,000 and above.

5. As a result of the Andhra State Act, 1953. Chandernagore (Merger) Act, 1954, States Reorganisation Act, 1956, and Bihar and West Bengal (Transfer of Territories) Act, 1956, the boundaries of a number of districts have been affected by the transfer of some portions from one district to another. It has, therefore, become necessary to compile separately for these affected districts the data given in this table. It has been presented in the Appendix. In compiling these figures, no account has been taken of inter-district transfers, if any, between 1951 Census and November 1, 1956 other than those covered by the above four Acts.

Towns arranged territorially with population by livelihood classes

TABLE A-V—Towns arranged territorially with population by livelihood classes

This table corresponds to Table V of the earlier Censuses with one important difference. In the earlier Censuses the population of every town was classified by Religion whereas in the present table the population of every town has been classified by Livelihood Classes.

2. The towns are arranged by States in the reorganised set-up. In each State figures are given for individual towns for Class I, Class II and Class III towns. The towns in each Class are arranged according to population order. After the name of each town an indication is given in brackets of the local administration of that town. In the case of Class IV, Class V and Class VI towns, separate figures are not given for individual towns but only the total for the Class is given. In each Class, totals have been furnished for towns which have a Municipality, Town Committee or other local body ; and also for towns where there are no such local bodies.

3. In the 1951 Census, the entire population of the country has been divided into two broad livelihood categories, viz., agricultural and non-agricultural. Each category is divided into four classes as below :—

Agricultural Classes—

(i) Cultivators of land wholly or mainly owned and their dependants

(ii) Cultivators of land wholly or mainly un-owned and their dependants

(iii) Cultivating labourers and their dependants

(iv) Non-cultivating owners of land ; agricultural rent receivers; and their dependants.

Non-agricultural Classes—

Persons (including dependants) who derive their principal means of livelihood from—

(v) Production other than cultivation

(vi) Commerce

(vii) Transport

(viii) Other services and miscellaneous sources.

[Note—(a) Land is deemed to be "owned" if it is held on any tenure (by whatever name it is known locally) which carries with it the right of permanent occupancy for purposes of cultivation. Such right should be heritable. It may be (but need not necessarily be) also transferable.

(b) A "cultivator" (Livelihood Class I or II) is distinguished from a "cultivating labourer" (Livelihood Class III) as the person who takes the responsible decisions which constitute the direction of the process of cultivation. All cultivating labourers are employees of cultivators.

(c) The classification of a person employed in any non-agricultural enterprise or establishment is based on the nature of his own work—not on the nature of the enterprise or establishment concerned. Thus, for instance, not all railway employees are classifiable under Livelihood Class VII (Transport). Those employed in Railway Workshops are classifiable under Livelihood Class V and those employed on Constructional Services under Livelihood Class VIII.]

This classification of population is available for every village and town in the country. In this table the figures for livelihood classes I to III have not been given separately but have been clubbed together in view of the small proportion of persons belonging to these classes in urban areas. The order of livelihood classes has also been changed and the Non-agricultural Classes have been given before the Agricultural Classes.

4. The number of towns shown in this table, viz., 3,018 is the same as that shown in Table A-I. The urban population according to this table is 61,836,394. As in Table A-IV the population of scattered urban areas in Andaman and Nicobar Islands with a population of 8,014 persons is not included in this table. Further there are certain urban areas in Uttar Pradesh which have not been treated as census towns but have been included as part of town groups or towns in Table A-IV, but have not been included in this table. The population of these areas is 30,715. The livelihood classification of this population is given in the Appendix.

TABLE E—Summary figures by districts

1. The present table is a re-cast of the original table E of the 1951 Census given in Volume I, Part II-A Demographic Tables, in the layout of States existing on November 1, 1956. This table corresponds to Table XVI—Summary figures of Provinces and States by Districts etc., of the 1941 Census with the main difference that while the 1941 table gave distribution of population of each district by the main communities, this table gives distribution of population of each district according to the eight livelihood classes prescribed for the 1951 Census. The eight livelihood classes have been described in the Introductory Note to Table A-V.

In re-casting the table no account has been taken, in the figures of total and livelihood classes population, of the inter-district transfers, if any, between 1951 Census and November 1, 1956, that have not been covered by the Andhra State Act, 1953, Chandernagore (Merger) Act, 1954, States Reorganisation Act, 1956, and Bihar and West Bengal (Transfer of Territories) Act, 1956.

2. There are three parts in the table. The first part relates to the total population, the second to the rural population and the third to the urban population. In earlier Censuses the table was not prepared for rural and urban population and was confined only to the total population. Figures are given in each part for India, States, Union Territories, and districts in each State and Union Territory.

3. In addition to the total population according to the 1951 Census and its distribution according to the eight livelihood classes, the table gives area in square miles; the density according to the 1951 Census; the 1941 Census population; and the percentage variation between 1941 and 1951 Censuses as well as between 1931 and 1941 Censuses.

4. Area.—In part(i) of the table, the area furnished by the Surveyor General, India as the latest determination has been given. This area has been adopted in re-cast Table A-I contained in this paper. In part (iii) of the Table the area given by the local authorities—which have been adopted in Table E of States—have been adopted as the Surveyor General has not furnished separate figures for rural and urban territories of districts. In part (ii) of the table, the difference between the total area of the district given in part (i) and the urban area given in part (iii) has been adopted. It should be noted that the figures for urban areas are in many cases tentative local estimates. Even such estimates are unavailable in a few* cases. It may also be mentioned here that the urban area figures do not take into account inter-district transfers, if any, between 1951 Census and November 1, 1956, whereas the total area figures furnished by the Surveyor General presumably take into account all such inter-district transfers. Therefore, the rural area figures arrived at by subtracting urban area from total area figures take into account inter-district transfers not only of the rural areas but also of the urban areas. Hence the separate totals for urban and rural land areas should be treated as only approximate.

5. Percentage Variation.—The tables gives the percentage variation in population for the decades 1931-41 and 1941-51. This will facilitate comparison with figures furnished in previous census reports as, in earlier Censuses, the growth of population was measured as a percentage of the population.

The rural and urban population figures for 1941 Census published in this table are based on those given in then State E—Tables. The 1941 urban population given in this table does not tally with that given in A-IV Table as in some of the States the urban population figures have been taken as they were in 1941 Census regardless of changes of rural areas into urban areas and vice versa.

6. Density.—In this table the density is given for the 1951 Census. The density for the 1951 Census has been calculated on the area figures given in column 2 of the table. The density figures of total and rural population are to be read with the limitation that while the area figures presumably take into account inter-district transfers, if any, between 1951 Census and November 1, 1956, the population figures do not take into account these inter-district transfers.

The area figures for India, Assam and five districts of North East Frontier Agency include 32,289† square miles of Part B Tribal Areas of Assam where no census was taken in 1951. But, in calculating the densities in Table (i) Total Population and Table (ii) Rural Population, no account of non-censused area has been taken.

7. Population.—The total, rural and urban population for all-India according to this table is as shown below:—

—	Persons	Males	Females
Total	356,744,298	183,262,639	173,481,659
Rural	294,869,175	149,989,911	144,879,264
Urban	61,875,123	33,272,728	28,602,395

* The figures are unavailable for the towns in Sorath district of Bombay, Sironj town in Bhilsa district and all towns in Jhabua district of Madhya Pradesh, the towns in all districts of Rajasthan except Ajmer district and the town in Sikkim.

† The area figures of the censused and non-censused areas separately, for the five districts of North East Frontier Agency in Assam, as per the latest determination, vide paragraph 4 above, was not available with the Surveyor General, India. The original area figures of the censused area, as furnished by the Surveyor General at the time of the 1951 Census, have been retained and the area figures of the non-censused area have been revised in the light of the area figures of the districts furnished by the Surveyor General as the latest determination.

18—1 M. of H.A. (Paying)/57

According to Table A-I, the population figures are :—

—	Persons	Males	Females
Total	356,879,394	183,333,874	173,545,520
Rural	295,004,271	150,061,146	144,943,125
Urban	61,875,123	33,272,728	28,602,395

It will be observed that there is a difference of 135,096 persons in the total and rural population. This difference will be observed in Punjab State and Amritsar, Hoshiarpur and Kangra districts thereof.

It has arisen because the enumeration record relating to 135,096 persons was destroyed by fire which broke out in the Census Tabulation Office at Jullundur after the population total had been checked and before the livelihood classification could be completed. This population has been taken into account while calculating the densities and percentage variations of the affected areas.

8. Estimation of Data.—As a result of Reorganisation of States, districts and Census tracts have sometimes been broken up and portions transferred from one State to another. Villages and towns, however, have not been affected. Since the data contained in the present table is available by individual villages and towns in the published census records, it has been possible to re-cast the figures of the original count without resorting to estimation except in the cases noted below:—

Shencottah pakuthy of Shencottah taluk of the district of Quilon in former Travancore-Cochin State was split up into two parts by an agreement between the Madras and Travancore-Cochin States shortly before the reorganisation of States in 1956. By this agreement a portion of the Pakuthy was transferred to Madras. This arrangement continues even after reorganisation. The sex-wise and livelihood classes break-up of the 1951 Census population, males and females separately, and the 1941 Census population of the two portions of the Pakuthy are not separately available in the 1951 Census records. The sex-wise and livelihood classes break-up of the 1951 Census population, males and females separately, of each of the two portions, has, therefore, been estimated on the assumption that it is in the same proportion as the sex-wise and livelihood classes break-up of the whole Pakuthy. The 1941 Census population of each of the two portions has been estimated on the assumption that it bears to the 1941 population of Quilon District the same proportion as in the 1951 Census.

(ii) The livelihood classes break-up of the 1951 Census population, males and females separately, of the rural portions of Islampur, Chopra, Thakurganj, Kishanganj and Karandighi police stations of Purnea district transferred from Bihar State to West Bengal State, was not separately available in the 1951 Census records. The livelihood classes break-up of the 1951 Census population, males and females separately, of the rural portions transferred from each of the police stations mentioned above has, therefore, been estimated on the assumption that it is in the same proportion as the livelihood classes break-up of the whole police station.

* Incudes non-censused area in Part B Tribal Areas of Assam.

† Excludes rural portions of Rajasthan except Ajmer district, Sorath district of Bombay, Bhilsa and Jhabua districts of Madhya Pradesh and Sikkim as the rural and urban break-up of 141,934 square miles in these States is not available. For calculating densities, the population of these areas has also been excluded.

‡Excludes figures for burnt slips in Punjab.

Includes the area figures of Karimnagar, Nalgonda and Warangal districts, separate figures for which are not available in their set-up as at 1951 Census.

(a) A new district viz., Khammam has been formed out of the districts of Karimnagar, Nalgonda and Warangal, subsequent to the 1951 Census. But no account of this change has been taken in this table.

N.A.—Not available.

*Excludes urban portions of Rajasthan except Ajmer district, Sorath district of Bombay, Bhilsa and Jhabua districts of Madhya Pradesh and Sikkim as the rural and urban break-up of 141, 934 sq. miles in these States is not available. For calculating densities, the population of these areas has also been excluded.

†A new district viz. Khammam has been formed out of the districts of Karimnagar, Nalgonda and Warangal, subsequent to the 1951 Census. But no account of this change has been taken in this table.
